

SEEDS

Seeds that twist and seeds that twirl,
Seeds with wings which spin and whirl,
Seeds that float on rivers and streams,
Seeds that drift on water that gleams;

Seeds inside fruit – a tasty treat,
Seeds which animals will happily eat!
These seeds are very soon passed on,
They fall and then grow when they're rained upon.

Seeds that animals like to collect,
But very often they will neglect –
They leave them lying underground
So they can grow and never be found.

Seeds with hooks that cling and stick,
To animals or people – a clever trick!
Seeds that burst with a popping sound,
From their pods they reach the ground.

Seeds of every shape and size,
It doesn't matter what disguise.
They'll make their way into the earth
And soon a plant is given birth.
